

ANNUAL DISCLOSURE NOTICE

This notice contains important information regarding your account with Robert W. Baird & Co. Incorporated ("Baird" or "we"). Please read it carefully and contact your Baird Financial Advisor with any questions.

Changes in Your Financial Situation and Investment Objectives

Please promptly inform your Baird Financial Advisor of any changes in your financial situation, investment objectives, employment, home address or tax status. In addition, if Baird has investment discretion over your account, please inform your Baird Financial Advisor if you would like to impose any reasonable restrictions on the management of your account or to modify any existing restrictions.

Client Instructions

Be sure to review and discuss your permanent account-level instructions, if any, regularly with your Baird Financial Advisor. Eligible clients and accounts may now instruct Baird to effect certain money movement transactions via Baird Online. Please contact your Baird Financial Advisor for more details.

Customer Due Diligence

FinCEN Bank Secrecy Act rules regarding customer due diligence requirements obligate Baird to identify and verify the identity of control persons and beneficial owners of legal entity customers and you agree to provide, upon Baird's request, certain identifying information regarding your control person(s) and beneficial owner(s) to the extent required by such rules.

Regulation Best Interest/Form CRS

Under Regulation Best Interest, Baird and Baird associates, when making a recommendation of any securities transaction or investment strategy (including account recommendations) to a retail customer, must act in the best interest of the retail customer at the time the recommendation is made, without placing the financial or other interest of Baird or the Baird associate ahead of the interest of the retail customer. Regulation Best Interest applies when Baird and the Baird associate is acting in a broker-dealer capacity. [When Baird or a Baird associate is acting as investment adviser for a client, Baird and the Baird associate are subject to a fiduciary duty, comprising a duty of care and a duty of loyalty, requiring them to act in a similar manner.] The best interest standard of conduct under Regulation

Best Interest requires Baird to comply with a disclosure obligation, a care obligation, a conflicts obligation and a compliance obligation. In addition, Baird is required to deliver a Client Relationship Summary (or Form CRS) to retail customers. Baird has prepared a Client Relationship Booklet that includes the Client Relationship Summary and the disclosures required under Regulation Best Interest. For a copy of Baird's Client Relationship Booklet and for other useful information to guide you in making account and investment decisions, please visit bairdwealth.com/retailinvestor.

Types of Baird Accounts, Services Offered, and Fees and Commissions

Baird offers to customers and clients both brokerage services and investment advisory programs and services. Depending upon your particular needs and goals, you may have brokerage accounts, advisory accounts or both. You should understand that brokerage services and investment advisory services are separate and distinct services and that there are important differences between those services and between brokerage accounts and advisory accounts. The types and levels of services provided to brokerage accounts and advisory accounts differ, and how Baird and your Baird Financial Advisor are compensated for providing those services also differs. For brokerage accounts, services are generally limited to providing custody of account assets, execution of securities transactions and other customary brokerage services, and Baird and your Baird Financial Advisor typically earn transaction-based compensation in the form of commissions, sales charges and trail fees for providing those services. For advisory accounts, the types and levels of services differ depending upon the advisory program or service selected for the account, but such services generally include investment recommendations, ongoing account monitoring, custody of account assets, execution of securities transactions and other customary brokerage services. For advisory accounts, clients typically pay Baird and their Baird Financial Advisor an ongoing quarterly fee based on a percentage of the assets in the account. Commissions, markups and markdowns charged for transactions in brokerage accounts are disclosed as required on your transaction confirmations, electronic copies of which are posted to your Baird Online account. If you are participating in an investment advisory program offered by Baird, the compensation you pay to Baird is described in your Client Relationship Agreement. Actual fees charged to your account for the services provided are detailed in your account statements.

It is important that you fully understand the characteristics of the accounts and services provided to you by Baird and your Baird Financial Advisor and the account options available when investing through Baird.

Please consult with your Baird Financial Advisor in the event you have any questions regarding charges to your account, the services provided or the types of accounts available. Additional important information about Baird, including the services it provides, the costs of those services, and potential conflicts of interest, is contained in Baird's Client Relationship Agreement and Client Relationship Details document, and, for advisory services, in Baird's Form ADV Part 2A Brochure. Copies of those documents are available at bairdwealth.com/retailinvestor.

Account Fees and Service Charges

Clients with brokerage and advisory accounts with Baird may pay other account fees and other charges, such as annual maintenance fees for certain account types (such as IRAs and retirement plan accounts), ongoing service fees for smaller accounts, IRA termination fees, fees for certain requested services, and other charges, such as an order handling fee for your brokerage transactions. In certain situations, some account fees and other charges may be waived. You may also be subject to wire transfer fees, securities transfer fees, investment conversion fees, and other charges imposed by us or other third parties providing services to you. You are also responsible for paying the fees and charges imposed by third parties, if any, that have custody of your investments or execute transactions for your account. A schedule of our account fees and other charges is available on our website at bairdwealth.com/retailinvestor.

Cash Sweep Program

Baird offers a Cash Sweep Program in which clients who elect to participate authorize and direct Baird to automatically “sweep” or deposit all of the uninvested cash in their Baird account into one or more FDIC-insured, interest-bearing deposit accounts at one or more participating banks. By using multiple participating banks, the program seeks to provide aggregate FDIC insurance protection for a client’s cash balances of up to $1,250,000 (or $2,500,000 for joint accounts) (the “Aggregate Deposit Limit”). The participating banks are organized into a number of priority lists, divided by state or geographic region, in order to manage the distribution of deposit balances among the banks. The priority lists are posted at rwbaird.com/cashsweeps. The applicable priority list is based on the state shown on the address for the client’s account that the client provided to Baird. Uninvested cash in a client’s Baird account is deposited into each of the deposit accounts at the banks in the order set forth on the priority list applicable to the client, until the amount approaches the FDIC insurance limit ($250,000 for most account types and $500,000 for joint accounts). Once cash approaches the FDIC insurance limit for a client’s account at one bank, additional cash is swept into a deposit account at the next bank on the priority list until the amount deposited at the next bank approaches the FDIC insurance limit, and so on, until the Aggregate Deposit Limit is reached. Any client cash balances in excess of the Aggregate Deposit Limit are automatically invested in a Dreyfus money market mutual fund. For ERISA plan accounts, all of the cash in their Baird accounts is automatically invested in a Dreyfus money market mutual fund. In addition, clients with aggregate cash balances of $5 million or more across all of their Baird accounts within the same household may elect to have all or any portion of their cash balances automatically moved into a Dreyfus money market mutual fund. Please note that investments in a money market mutual fund are not insured by the FDIC but, like other securities, are protected by SIPC coverage up to applicable limits. Under the Cash Sweep Program, the interest rates that clients receive on their cash balances in bank deposit accounts are tiered, based on the aggregate value of the accounts within the client’s household, with households with larger aggregate account values receiving a higher interest rate than those with smaller aggregate account values. It is intended that each account within the same household will receive the same interest rate on their bank deposit account balances regardless of the bank(s) holding their deposits. A third-party administrator assists in the administration of the program. The bank deposit accounts are held in Baird’s name as agent for the exclusive benefit of its customers and are not held in the name of each client. Deposits, withdrawals and other transactions may only be made by clients through Baird and not directly with the banks. Each deposit account is a direct obligation of the participating bank and is not directly or indirectly an obligation of Baird.

Baird receives compensation for the services it provides in connection with the Cash Sweep Program. Such compensation consists of a monthly per account fee (not to exceed $14.50 per month) that applies to IRA advisory accounts, which is generally paid out of the total interest that the banks agree to pay on the aggregate client deposits (the “bank all-in interest”) and therefore does not appear on client account statements; and a fee applicable to all other accounts (which may be up to 2% per annum of aggregate cash balances in the bank deposit accounts) that is equal to the amount remaining after deducting the interest paid to clients on their cash and the administrator’s fee from the bank all-in interest. Such compensation is directly related to the Fed Funds Target Rate and will vary with changes in that rate. The compensation that Baird earns on the Cash Sweep Program presents a conflict of interest in that it gives Baird a financial incentive to have clients participate in the Cash Sweep Program and to maintain cash balances in the Cash Sweep Program. Clients with investment advisory accounts will pay both the asset-based fee on all of the assets in those accounts, including cash, which means that Baird receives both the asset-based advisory fee and compensation under the Cash Sweep Program on cash balances. Advisory account clients may choose to maintain their cash balances in a brokerage account in which there is not an asset-based fee. Money market mutual funds and other cash equivalent or cash alternative investments may be purchased outside the Cash Sweep Program.

The banks participating in the Cash Sweep Program, the bank priority lists that apply to the cash balances in clients' accounts and the interest rates that are paid on those cash balances may change from time to time following notice provided on Baird's website for the Cash Sweep Program at rwbaird.com/cashsweeps. For more information about the Cash Sweep Program, the participating banks, bank priority lists, and current interest rates or yields, see rwbaird.com/cashsweeps.

FDIC Insurance

The FDIC, an independent agency of the U.S. Government, provides insurance protection for bank deposits up to applicable limits. The FDIC generally insures up to a maximum of $250,000 (including principal and accrued interest) per depositor, for all deposits held in the same insurable capacity at any one bank. This limit applies to most account types, such as individual accounts and IRAs. For joint accounts, the insurance limit is $250,000 for each owner of the account, so that a joint account with two owners is insured up to $500,000. By having a number of FDIC-insured banks participating in the Cash Sweep Program, client cash balances can be spread among several banks, providing the potential for FDIC coverage greater than that which the clients would have if their cash deposits were held only in a single bank. Under the Cash Sweep Program, Baird will not deposit cash for a client in any participating bank in excess of $250,000 for most account types (or $500,000 for joint accounts with two or more owners) and by using multiple banks the program currently seeks to make available aggregate FDIC insurance protection for client balances in the participating banks of up to $1,250,000 for most account types (or $2,500,000 for joint accounts with two or more owners). Client cash becomes eligible for deposit insurance immediately when a bank accepts the deposits into the bank deposit accounts. Because balances in any accounts or deposits that a client may maintain in the same insurable capacity directly with a particular bank, or indirectly through an intermediary (such as Baird in the Cash Sweep Program or another broker-dealer), in the same insurable capacity are aggregated for purposes of the FDIC insurance limit, it is important for clients to monitor the total amount of deposits that they have with each bank in order to determine the extent of FDIC insurance coverage available to them. Baird does not take responsibility for knowing a client's bank deposit account balances outside of the client's Baird account or the names of the banks holding those balances. However, clients may designate banks as ineligible to receive their cash under the Cash Sweep Program.

In the event that federal deposit insurance payments become necessary, payments of principal plus unpaid and accrued interest will be made to clients. There is no specific time period during which the FDIC must make insurance payments available, and Baird is under no obligation to credit client accounts with funds in advance of payments received from the FDIC. Furthermore, clients may be required to provide certain documentation to the FDIC and Baird before insurance payments are made. For example, if a client holds deposits as trustee for the benefit of trust participants, the client may be required to furnish affidavits and provide indemnities regarding an insurance payment.

Electronic Funds Transfer Services and Cash Management Program Debit Card

The following information pertains to clients of Baird who hold the Cash Management Program Debit Card or transfer money electronically to or from Baird.

If you believe your Baird Account Statement or Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT) terminal receipt is incorrect, or if you need more information about a transaction listed on a Baird Account Statement or EFT terminal receipt, telephone Baird at 888-792-7526, option 0, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Central Time during any business day in which Baird is open for business, or write Baird at: Robert W. Baird & Co. Incorporated, Client Services, P.O. Box 139, Milwaukee, WI 53201-0139. Baird must hear from you no later than 60 calendar days after the first Baird Account Statement was sent on which the problem or error appeared. Please provide Baird with the following information:

- Your name, address, phone number and Baird account number
- A description of the error or the EFT transfer you are unsure about, and why you believe it is an error or more information is needed
- The dollar amount of the suspected error

If you notify Baird orally, Baird may require that you send Baird your complaint or question in writing within 10 business days. In addition, Baird may require additional documentation from you or action by you in order to investigate or resolve your complaint.

Please note that Baird is not responsible for any transfers of money out of your Baird account that are made in accordance with your request. You need to be confident in the accuracy of your instructions before any requesting of transfers.

Baird will determine whether an error occurred within 10 business days after Baird receives notice from you and will correct any error promptly. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Baird may take up to 45 calendar days for ATM transactions (and 90 calendar days for point-of-sale transactions or transactions effected outside of the United States) to investigate your complaint or question. If Baird decides to do so, Baird will credit your Baird account within 10 business days for the amount you think is in error, so that you will have the use of the money during the time it takes Baird to complete Baird's investigation. However, if Baird asks you to put your complaint or question in writing and Baird does not receive it within 10 business days, Baird may not credit your Baird account.

Baird will inform you of the results within three business days after completing our investigation. If Baird decides that there was no error, Baird will send you a written explanation.

You may ask for copies of the documents that Baird used in its investigation.

You may not place a stop payment on electronic funds or point-of-sale transactions. Therefore, you should not employ electronic access for purchases or services unless you are satisfied you will not need to stop payment.

Deposits Into Your Baird Account

Pursuant to Baird's internal policy, deposits into your Baird account made by check will be subject to a minimum hold period of seven business days before being available for withdrawal.

Transfer of Securities Into Your Baird Account

Baird may prohibit the transfer in of low-priced non-exchange-traded securities and securities subject to the Depository Trust Company's "Global Lock" or "Deposit Chill" restrictions due to regulatory concerns and concerns that the securities are not freely transferable. Baird may also prevent the sale of low-priced, non-exchange-traded securities for up to 30 days from the date of transfer to allow for a thorough review of the security. Baird may also require that certain securities be transferred out of a Baird account at any time, and the failure to transfer the securities in a timely manner may result in Baird requesting that the security be converted to certificate form. See the Direct Registration of Securities section below for more information.

Direct Registration of Securities

Requests for physical stock certificates are processed through the Direct Registration System (DRS). DRS offers the ability to maintain direct ownership electronically on the books and records of the transfer agent of the issuer. Once a DRS account has been established, the security will no longer be reflected on your Baird statement and you will begin to receive statements from the transfer agent. If an issuer does provide physical certificates, you may obtain a stock certificate by contacting the transfer agent identified on the DRS statement.

Additional information regarding DRS and the best options for holding securities may be found at sec.gov/investor/pubs/holdsec.htm.

Federal and State Tax Withholding for Retirement Accounts

Your federal and state income tax withholding election for distributions from your individual retirement account or qualified retirement plan may be changed at any time by contacting your Baird Financial Advisor. Please note that if you do not have enough federal and state income tax withheld, you may be responsible for payment of estimated taxes, and certain penalties may apply.

IRA and Retirement Plan Clients

Baird is approved by the Internal Revenue Service to serve as a nonbank trustee/custodian. A copy of Baird's notice of approval is available at content.rwbaird.com/RWB/Content/PDF/Help/IRS-Notice-of-Approval-6-2004-RWB.pdf or by contacting the Baird Client Services Department at the telephone number or address listed above.

An IRA rollover may be an appropriate solution for certain clients. Because each situation is different, it is important that you understand your options as well as the benefits and costs associated with rolling your retirement plan into a Baird IRA account. Baird and Baird Financial Advisors have a financial interest when persons establish IRA rollovers at Baird because it will result in compensation to Baird. As a matter of firm policy, Baird Financial Advisors are prohibited from making rollover recommendations to rollover your retirement plan assets to Baird, although they may provide education and information about the benefits and disadvantages of an IRA rollover.

For more information on IRA rollovers, please see the Important Information about Rollover IRAs document that is available at bairdwealth.com/retailinvestor.

Margin Disclosure Statement

When you purchase securities, you may pay for the securities in full or you may borrow part of the purchase price from Baird. If you choose to borrow funds from Baird, you will open a margin account. The securities in the margin account are Baird's collateral for the loan to you. If the securities in your account decline in value, so does the value of the collateral supporting your loan. As a result, Baird can take action, such as issue a margin call and/or sell securities in your account in order to maintain the required equity in the account.

It is important that you fully understand the risks involved in trading securities on margin. These risks include the following:

- You can lose more funds than you deposit in the margin account
- Baird can force the sale of securities or other assets in your account(s)
- Baird can sell your securities or other assets without contacting you
- You are not entitled to choose which securities or other assets in your account(s) are liquidated or sold to meet a margin call
- Baird can increase its “house” maintenance margin requirements at any time and is not required to provide you advance written notice
- You are not entitled to an extension of time on a margin call
- You pay interest on the margin loan at a rate that will fluctuate based on changes to prevailing interest rates
- You may lose shareholder proxy voting rights if your shares are lent out by the firm during the voting period
- You may receive payments in lieu of dividends (potentially taxed at a high rate) when your shares are lent out over the dividend record date

For more details, please contact your Baird Financial Advisor for a Margin Account Disclosure Document or visit rwbaird.com/help/loanrates.

Foreign Securities

Clients who own certain foreign securities or American Depositary Receipts (collectively, “Foreign Securities”) may have their ownership rights with respect to such securities restricted under the laws of certain jurisdictions or may otherwise be subject to procedures to collect and transmit proxy votes with respect to such securities. For example, as a precondition to exercising proxy voting rights, certain Foreign Securities may need to be “blocked” or otherwise prohibited from trading for a specified time period. In such an event, Baird must make arrangements with the Depository Trust Company or other third parties to the blocking of eligible shares. A Client who owns a Foreign Security eligible to proxy vote subject to blocking must notify Baird in writing at least five business days prior to any required blocking date. While blocked, Client may not give any sale or transfer instructions with respect to blocked shares.

In addition, pursuant to certain foreign laws, Client’s proxy votes will not be accepted unless Baird discloses certain information regarding Client to the issuer of the Foreign Securities. Client should reference the Client Relationship Agreement in effect between Client and Baird or contact Client’s Baird Financial Advisor for more information.

Information Regarding the Routing of Your Equity Orders

Certain equity securities orders may be routed to other broker-dealers or exchanges for execution. Each quarter, Baird prepares a summary discussing orders routed away for execution, including the type and the identity of the securities broker-dealers or exchanges receiving such orders. This summary is available by clicking the Routing of Equity Orders link on our website at bairdwealth.com/retailinvestor. A copy of the most recent quarterly summary is also available to you upon request. You may also request the identity of the broker-dealer or exchange executing your trade and the associated time of execution on any of your equity trades placed within the last six months.

Callable Securities

Baird maintains policies and procedures designed to ensure the fair and impartial allocation of securities among all clients in the event of a partial call or redemption of securities prior to maturity. A description of these allocation procedures can be found in the Callable Lotteries at Baird document available at bairdwealth.com/retailinvestor. Additionally, a hard copy of Baird's allocation procedures is available upon your request, or you may contact your Baird Financial Advisor for more information.

Odd Lot Trading

Please be reminded that the following actions are prohibited:

- Unbundling round lots for the purpose of entering odd lot orders.
- Failing to aggregate odd lot orders into round lots when such orders are for the same account or for various accounts in which there is a common monetary interest.
- Entering both buy and sell odd lot limit orders in the same stock before one of the orders is executed for the purpose of capturing the spread in the stock.
- Other types of trading activity in odd lot orders that are not consistent with traditional odd lot investment activity, including index arbitrage, certain types of program trading or any pattern of activity that would suggest day trading.

Extended Hours Trading

Clients should consider the following items prior to engaging in extended-hours trading. "Extended-hours trading" is defined as trading outside of the regular trading hours for the primary exchange of the security being traded. "Regular trading hours" generally means between 9:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Eastern Time for trades in equity securities and 8:00 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Eastern Time for trades in fixed income securities.

- Risk of Lower Liquidity. Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and sell securities. Generally, the more orders that are available in a market, the greater the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity it is easier for investors to buy or sell securities, and as a result, investors are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for securities purchased or sold. There may be lower liquidity in extended-hours trading as compared to regular market hours. As a result, an order may only be partially executed, or not at all.
- Risk of Higher Volatility. Volatility refers to the changes in price that securities undergo when trading. Generally, the higher the volatility of a security, the greater its price swings. There may be greater volatility in extended hours trading than in regular market hours. As a result, an order may only be partially executed, or not at all, or an order may receive an inferior price in extended-hours trading than it would during regular market hours.
- Risk of Changing Prices. The prices of securities traded in extended-hours trading may not reflect the prices either at the end of regular market hours or upon the opening the next morning. As a result, an order may receive an inferior price in extended-hours trading than it would during regular market hours.
- Risk of Unlinked Markets. Depending on the extended-hours trading system or the time of day, the prices displayed on a particular extended-hours trading system may not reflect the prices in other concurrently operating extended-hours trading systems dealing in the same securities. Accordingly, an order may receive an inferior price in one extended-hours trading system than it would in another extended-hours trading system.

- Risk of News Announcements. Normally, issuers make news announcements that may affect the price of their securities after regular market hours. Similarly, important financial information is frequently announced outside of regular market hours. In extended-hours trading, these announcements may occur during trading, and if combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility, may cause an exaggerated and unsustainable effect on the price of a security.
- Risk of Wider Spreads. The spread refers to the difference between the price at which a security can be bought and the price for which it can be sold. Lower liquidity and higher volatility in extended-hours trading may result in wider than normal spreads for a particular security.
- Risk of Lack of Calculation or Dissemination of Underlying Index Value or Intraday Indicative Value (“IIV”). For certain derivative securities products, an updated underlying index value or IIV may not be calculated or publicly disseminated in extended-trading hours. Since the underlying index value and IIV are not calculated or widely disseminated during the opening- and late-trading sessions, an investor who is unable to calculate implied values for certain derivative securities products in those sessions may be at a disadvantage to market professionals.

Large Orders

Pursuant to FINRA Rule 5320, Baird may trade on a proprietary basis at prices that would satisfy a client order or for orders of 10,000 shares or more (unless such orders are less than $100,000 in value). By notifying the contact listed below in writing (see the section entitled “Questions, Notices, Inquiries, Complaints”), a client may opt into the full protections offered under Rule 5320 for a period of one year or until a client has received a subsequent written disclosure by Baird allowing the client an opportunity to opt in again to such protections.

Best Execution / Limit Up-Limit Down

While Baird complies with its best execution obligations with respect to all client orders, clients should be aware that the execution of some orders may be delayed because of Baird’s obligations pursuant to Rule 611 under Regulation NMS, as a result of such orders failing to meet proscribed criteria for execution outside of Limit Up/Limit Down bands. Such orders may not be executed until they are within the specified bands.

Penny Stock Risks

Penny stocks are securities issued by a very small company trading at less than $5 per share, but also include certain private company securities with no active trading market. Penny stocks are typically quoted over-the-counter but may also trade on securities exchanges, including foreign exchanges. Due to potentially infrequent trading, penny stocks may be difficult to sell once owned and it may be problematic or impossible to attain accurate pricing due to difficulties in obtaining quotations. Therefore, penny stocks are considered speculative investments and investors should be prepared for the possibility of losing their whole investment (or an amount greater if purchased on margin).

Liquidation of Fractional Shares

From time to time, such as when a pending dividend reinvestment occurs after your position in the applicable security is liquidated or as a result of your request to transfer your account holdings from Baird to another custodian, liquidation of your accumulated fractional positions may be required. Under such circumstances, your fractional shares will be sold commission-free. Liquidation will be affected through a sale transaction executed at the applicable security's price as of close of the previous trading day.

As is the case with purchases of fractional shares, under the Dividend Reinvestment Program, you will not receive a written confirmation of each individual sale transaction applicable to your fractional position; however, your Baird Client Statement will provide details on the liquidation transaction. In addition, you may obtain current information on a fractional liquidation transaction by contacting your Baird Financial Advisor.

FINRA Broker Check

In accordance with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority conduct rule pertaining to investor education and protection, we are providing our clients with the following information.

- The FINRA Broker Check Hotline telephone number is 800-289-9999.
- The FINRA website address is finra.org.

For a copy of a brochure that includes important information concerning FINRA Broker Check, call the FINRA Broker Check Hotline or visit the FINRA website at finra.org.

Business Continuity

Baird has a business continuity program in place to help ensure safety, continuity of service, and support for our clients and associates. The program includes periodic evaluation of risk and control, business impact analysis, business continuity strategy development and review, emergency response planning, crisis management planning, business continuity planning and periodic plan maintenance. Various rehearsal exercises are conducted throughout the year to evaluate our readiness. Audits of the business continuity program are performed, and progress is reported to a Business Continuity Steering Committee.

Individual departments have business continuity plans that contain procedures for response, recovery and resumption of critical business processes. Department plans include contact information for associates, vendors and critical business partners. This information is updated periodically and is available off site electronically and through hard copy. A plan may be invoked in whole or in part, depending on the severity of the incident and the functional areas affected. It is the firm's objective to continue business during any foreseeable disruptive event and to provide clients prompt access to their funds and securities.

Emergency response procedures are in place for building evacuation and weather emergencies at our headquarters as well as other Baird offices. Regular drills are in place to exercise these procedures. Communication and direction throughout any incident is coordinated through the Crisis Management team and escalated to the Executive Committee if needed.

Alternative sites have defined workspace that can be used for the recovery of certain trading and related clearance and settlement as well as other functions. Space will be provided at various Baird sites to accommodate other department recovery teams. The alternate Baird sites are at locations that give us the ability to recover from disruptions affecting various locations, including our headquarters building and its surrounding area, as well as city-wide and regional events. In addition, our primary client information service vendor is highly resilient and gives us the ability to process orders and otherwise service our clients from Baird sites not experiencing a disruption. They also have a business continuity plan in place that provides for data backup and redundancy. They test their recovery capability regularly.

In the event of a power disruption at our corporate headquarters, we have alternate power generation capability sufficient to support our trading, information technology and critical clearance and settlement functions.

Our main telephone system is redundant across multiple locations. In the event of branch office outages, phone calls are redirected to our corporate headquarters, where designated Baird Financial Advisors can assist clients with their investment needs. Longer-term disruptions may require relocating personnel to other Baird sites. Baird's wide area network also contains multiple levels of redundancy. Mission critical systems have redundancy, which allows for continuous or failover operation in the event of hardware or network failures. System backups are performed for recovery purposes and stored at alternate locations.

Baird's business continuity plan is rehearsed regularly. Remote work exercises are performed twice a year. Auto notification and emergency communications exercises are run on a regular basis. Monthly generator tests occur as well as appropriate IT technical recovery rehearsals. The plan is reviewed by executive senior management on an annual basis and is monitored by Baird's dedicated business continuity team. The plan is updated throughout the year and in the event of any material change to the firm's operations, technology, structure, business or location.

If you have any questions or concerns, please contact your Baird Financial Advisor or call us toll-free at 800-792-2473 and ask for the Business Continuity Director.

Securities Investor Protection Corporation ("SIPC") and Safety of Client Assets

In accordance with FINRA Rule 2266, clients may obtain information about SIPC, including investor FAQs and SIPC brochures:

- By visiting the SIPC website at: sipc.org
- By telephone at 202-371-8300

Additional information regarding the safety of client assets at Baird is also available at: rwbaird.com/help/safety-security/safety-customer-assets.aspx

Other Important Information

Municipal Securities

For more information regarding the purchase, sale or holding of municipal securities, including material event notices, financial disclosure and Official Statements, please visit emma.msrb.org. Baird is registered with the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board ("MSRB") and the SEC as a municipal securities dealer and a municipal advisor. The MSRB's website, at msrb.org, features an Education Center with valuable information for investors about municipal bonds.

Notice to Members of U.S. Armed Forces and Their Dependents

FINRA rules require Baird to make certain disclosures to members of the U.S. Armed Forces and their dependents when holding in-person meetings on the premises of a military installation. Services provided to such clients by Baird, including the offering of securities, are provided by Robert W. Baird & Co. Incorporated, a broker-dealer registered with the SEC under the Exchange Act, and as an investment adviser under the Adviser's Act. Securities offered by or through Baird are not offered or provided by Baird on behalf of the Federal Government and the offer of such securities is not sanctioned, recommended or encouraged by the Federal Government.

European Personal Data. Where personal data of individuals residing in the European Union (EU) is processed by Baird or its affiliates in the U.S. in relation to the offering of products or services to such individuals, or in relation to monitoring of such individuals' online behavior, then, in addition to the above, Baird will comply with the provisions of the European Client and Third Party Privacy Notice (available at bairdeurope.com/European-Client-and-Third-Party-Privacy-Notice) with respect to such processing.

For Nevada residents only. We are providing you this notice pursuant to state law. You may be placed on our internal Do Not Call List by following the directions in the "Can you limit this sharing" section by choosing to limit sharing "For our affiliates to market to you." Nevada law requires that we also provide you with the following contact information: Bureau of Consumer Protection, Office of the Nevada Attorney General, 555 E. Washington Street, Suite 3900, Las Vegas, NV 89101; Phone number:

Vermont: In accordance with Vermont law, we will not share information we collect about Vermont residents with companies outside of our corporate family, except as permitted by law, such as with your consent, to service your accounts or to other financial institutions with which we have joint marketing agreements. We will not share information about your creditworthiness within our corporate family except with your authorization or consent, but we may share information about our transactions or experiences with you within our corporate family without your consent.

California: In accordance with California law, we will not share information we collect about you with companies outside of Baird, unless the law allows. For example, we may share information to service your accounts, or to provide rewards or benefits you are entitled to. We will limit sharing among our companies to the extent required by California law. We collect personally identifiable information from online customers when those customers choose to enter their personal information while using Baird's websites and/or online services (including mobile applications). This information includes, but is not limited to, customer names, email and mailing addresses, phone numbers, and Social Security numbers. Baird does not collect personally identifiable information from general online site visitors unless those consumers unilaterally opt to provide personally identifiable information to Baird. Baird also does not share personally identifiable information with third-party persons or entities unless authorized by the customer. If Baird's online customers wish to change the contents of the personally identifiable information previously supplied to Baird, those customers may do so by contacting their local Baird entity branch office and requesting the change. Alternatively, some websites and online services offered by Baird permit customers to change the contents of their personally identifiable information online. As stated above, Baird does not collect personally identifiable information about individual consumers unless those consumers choose to provide such information. We are aware that some internet browsers have incorporated Do Not Track ("DNT") features. Most of these features, when turned on, send a signal or preference to the websites you visit indicating that you do not wish to be tracked. Because Baird does not collect personally identifiable information unless the online customer voluntarily submits it, and because of a lack of industry standard, Baird does not currently respond to DNT signals, whether on its websites or other online services. Baird does not allow other parties to collect personally identifiable information about its online customers' individual online activities over time or across different websites. Baird cannot, however, guarantee protection from web-based criminal conduct that could result in the collection of an online customer's personally identifiable information by an outside party. Please refer to <https://content.rwbaird.com/RWB/Content/PDF/CCPA-Addendum-to-Privacy-Notice.pdf> for additional information specific to the California Consumer Privacy Act of 2018.

For Insurance Customers in AZ, CA, CT, GA, IL, ME, MA, MN, MT, NV, NJ, NC, OH, OR, and VA only. The term "Information" in this part means customer information obtained in an insurance transaction. We may give your Information to state insurance officials, law enforcement, group policyholders about claims experience, or auditors as the law allows or requires. We may give your Information to insurance support companies that may keep it or give it to others. We may share medical information so we can learn if you qualify for coverage, process claims, or prevent fraud or if you say we can. To see your information, contact the employee who services your account by mail or telephone. You must state your full name, address, the insurance company, policy number (if relevant), and the information you want. We will tell you what information we have. You may see and copy the information (unless privileged) at our office or ask that we mail you a copy for a fee. If you think any information is wrong, you must write us. We will let you know what actions we take. If you do not agree with our actions, you may send us a statement.

For MA Insurance Customers only. You may ask in writing the specific reasons for an adverse underwriting decision. An adverse underwriting decision is where we decline your application for insurance, offer to insure you at a higher than standard rate, or terminate your coverage.

Baird may change this privacy notice at any time, and any changes or updates will be effective immediately on the date of posting. For a current version, please visit rwbaird.com/privacy.
